Happy Birthday, United Nations! . . .

Eight years old on Oct. 24. You've had a short childhood; you've had to grow up fast.

At your birth you were hailed as a savior. You would straighten out this messy world. You would bring our boys home from occupied Japan and West Germany. You would bring nations into a close and friendly relationship. You would make taxes go down. You would put a car in workingman Brown's garage. You would make me successful by giving me a perfect world to inherit.

You would do all this and more. But you didn't.
